WIPE OUT THE STIGMA OF SHAME

NEXT Tuesday is a day of great moment to every citizen of Nevada for it brings to mind the solemn fact that an election be it primary or final carries with it an obligation to sustain the constitution. In former years there was no talk of sedition and any man who chose to ramble around on the dangerous grounds of Socialism or indifference to good government merited little notice. Now it is different. The nation is at war. The country is strewn with seeds of disloyalty which are receiving careful cultivation through the propaganda circulated by our enemies. This is the time when there cannot be any half way measures. A man must be an American clear through to the backbone or he is an enemy. There is no dodging that conclusion. A voter must either be 100 per cent American or he is one whom every honest citizen should shun or see that he is sent to an internment camp. Men who qualify their utterances by either equivocation or mental reservation are not safe to trust in public office. State and local tickets, while involving onerous obligations, do not carry with them the responsibility that we look for in men whom we send to Washington and therefore more attention should be paid to the congressional aspirants than to others claiming our franchise. Unfortunately Nevada is one of the states under suspicion. Its record for going over the top in all war activities has not purged us of the obloquy induced by the reckless utterances in congress of E. E. Roberts, the representative who aspires to senatorial honors. Should the wires announce next Tuesday night that he has received a majority vote in the primaries, the fact would set this state back in the estimation of all honorable citizens who are intent on winning this war and who are devoting every spare dollar to helping the government encompass that purpose.

Such a condition must not happen but it is up to the Republican voters to see that no further reflections will be cast upon a commonwealth which has exceeded every call of the administration in rallying to the cry of country.

If you want Nevada to be known as the state where disloyalty is fostered then you can vote for E. E. Roberts.

If you want Nevada to be known as the state whose people promptly and effectively reprimanded its representative in congress for persistent misrepresentation YOU MUST VOTE FOR WALTER C. LAMB.

There is no middle course. It is one or the other and every Republican should see that on next Tuesday night the world is informed that there is no yellow streak branding the Republicans of this state.

THE PRICE OF PACIFISM

THE men who do the fighting at the front and their mothers and wives back here are those who in this great and terrible crisis are paying—the blood of the men and the tears of the women, and with the suffering of men, women and children—for our failure to prepare during the two and a half years before we entered the world's war. For this failure to prepare, in spite of the most vivid warning ever given a nation, the warning that befell the rest of the world during those two and a half years, the professed pacifists and the politicians who pandered to them are more responsible than any one else, except the pro-Germans.

If, when the war broke out, or at least, when the Lusitania was sunk, we had done our plain duty, we would have then begun to build ships, field cannons and airplanes and to train men exactly as we have been doing the last year and a quarter, except that we should have done the work on a larger scale with more efficiency and with much less waste and extravagance.

Remember that failure to provide great numbers of cannon and airplanes means that the infantry has to pay for it with a huge increase of slaughter. All the guns and airplanes we left unbuilt during the first three years of the war has meant so much more bloodshed, so many more Americans killed and crippled, not to speak of the tremendous loss of life to our allies.—Theodore Roosevelt.

Walter Lamb, candidate for the U. S. senate nomination on the Republican ticket, is not a man who is afraid to be heard on public questions. His campaign shows that for he has sent literature into every household boldly declaring himself for support of the administration in all things pertaining to war and there cannot be any misunderstanding about what attitude he will assume when it comes to a showdown. Every voter will know where to find Walter Lamb. There will be no guessing contest.

Preachers of pacifism have no place in Nevada and it is up to the Republicans of Nevada to say so with an unanimity that will forever still the slanders leveled at us.

Nevada has not received a dollar of war appropriations which may be ascribed to the fact that this state was one of the few that withheld its approval of the war policies of President Wilson.

Who was silent when words would have counted for much in preparing the county for war—Roberts.

Heinie Hun is improving his speed by keeping about two jumps ahead of the allies.

California, the state of freak legislation, has opened a fight over its latest jackpot in the gubernatorial nomination.

The knell of kaiserism is sounded by the past week's victories. Vote for a good Republican in the senate from Nevada during the reconstruction period.

German statesmen are talking of evacuating Belgium and restoring Alsace and Lorraine but the allies will not have any half way job. They want a clean-up of imperialism.

MAY USE ELEPHANTS TO RESTORE FRANCE

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 31.—John Ringling, circus owner, has determined to propose to the allied governments that African elephants be loaned and used in the reconstruction of France after the war.

THE DEATH SCENE OF OLD DICK PARKS

Four or five years ago there lived in Manhattan an old character by name of Dick Parks. He was a violinist of some local note. He would sometimes play for some of our home-folk dances. All at once we missed him from our busy street. We then learned he was very ill. He lived some distance from the center of our town up a steep and narrow gulch, but every day a party of our local charitable women visited him, and took to him wine and nourishing food.

The old man told some of his friends, the day before he died, how those noble women cheered and cared for him in his last days. He died. Those women arranged for his funeral. They wove a beautiful wreath of flowers, and placed at his head. The old man was poor. There was no priest or minister of the gospel there. One of those women played some sacred music on a violin—that old violin that he loved so well; and one of them knelt by his coffin, and, with uplifted voice, pleaded for the salvation of his soul.

As the spirit of that poor old man moved over the "lonely trail" and into the great beyond, it was accompanied by the loving and pleading prayer of a woman.

The great writers of the past have written many a pathetic and affecting death scene; the great artists have displayed on canvas many a sad and dramatic scene, but for pure and unselfish love and charity, the death scene of old Dick Parks, of Manhattan, Nevada, will never be surpassed.

FIRST ACT OF A NEW BOLSHEVIST

(By Associated Press)

PETROGRAD, Aug. 31.—The Minskoye Slovo publishes the following letter alleged to have been written by a "squad companion" elected by his fellows, commander of a Bolshevik regiment, to his wife in a Russian village:

"My greatly respected wife, Agripina Ivanovna.—In the first lines of my letter I inform you that by the grace of God and the will of my soldier comrades the blood of the nobility is now flowing in my veins, because I am now Father-Commander of the whole regiment and of its war-chest. I enclose Rs. 100, with which you must buy yourself an astrachan coat and a feather which is worn on the head.

You are not to keep company with the women of the village, but you must call on the officers' wives. Do not rush into their houses like a swine but let yourself be announced to let them know who you are.

Your husband and, at present, Commander of a Regiment, Thoma Terentyevich Kiso-oukhlin.

battle fronts are slaughtering mules and horses by the tens of thousands. Mr. Ringling and Edmond Lapiez, of the University of Louvain, Belgium, met in conference here the other day and discussed plans for using the heretofore African elephant in reconstruction work in Europe.

The men agreed that the loss of horses and mules could not be replaced for many years, and, since African elephants may be found in vast numbers, and be tamed easily, both felt positive that the allies would assist in the shipment of the big beasts.

"One elephant will do the work of twenty-six horses," said Mr. Lapiez, who has charge of the Belgian government's business in the Congo. "Europe must be reconstructed and there will be no horses. We are using the African elephant in carrying timber from the forest, in plowing and in all kinds of farm work. He carries and lifts beams and girders for the construction of buildings."

CEREALS FOR POULTRY

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Fifty thousand tons of cereals have been set aside by the British food ministry "for the preservation of the best breeds of English poultry." The selection of the fowls to be thus favored is to be made by local committees formed in various localities by poultry keepers.

GERMANS TOLD FOCH'S FORCES ARE EXHAUSTED

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Long before Marshal Foch began his brilliant counter offensive on the Marne, the Germans had been told that his reserves had been exhausted. This is shown by a Wolff bureau dispatch published in the Berlin Tageblatt which described the fighting about Chateau Thierry.

"The hope of the entente regarding a decisive intervention of this great army of manoeuvre has been definitely shattered. The proud army of reserve which the war council of Versailles played out its trump exerts as such no longer," read the dispatch.

"The great victory of the crown prince has shattered a considerable part of the enemies fighting force and has resulted in the dissolution and complete dispersal of the Foch army of manoeuvre. The tremendous losses suffered by the entente on the extensive fronts between Ypres and Rheims will be difficult to replace."

This was published in Germany about a month before Marshal Foch struck the Germans on the Marne salient and drove them back to the Vesle. It probably shows why the German public was so greatly surprised by Marshal Foch's brilliant stroke.
